Conference interpreting service

We offer the full range of interpretation services, providing end-to-end project assistance from planning through to implementation

The Arab American Language Institute (AALI) is the premier business conference interpretation and translation service for major events in North America and the MENA region.

AALI offers interpretation, equipment and project management solutions for conferences of all sizes and across multiple topics.

We have a network of capable and talented simultaneous conference interpreters with excellent linguistic and customer service skills. We guide you so that all the technological requirements of your event are met. We supply all the necessary simultaneous interpretation equipment and provide on-the-ground support during your event.

AALI is founded by Muhannad F. Haimour, with more than 20 years of professional interpretation experience and translation and interpreting. He worked as a Conference Level Interpreter with the US Department of State – Office of Language Services and was one of the first to develop a training workshop for Arabic/English court interpreters which was endorsed by the Michigan Supreme Court.
